SANTA CRUZ TANNERY IN OPERATION SINCE 1861

Founded in 1861, the Salz company is one of the oldest businesses in Santa Cruz – the very oldest, according to its voluble president, Norman S. Lezin, who has, in the last decade, hauled the company into the twentieth century.

Actually, it should be called a "chromery." One of the recent changes in the tanning business is the switch from the slow process of vegetable tanning – using tanbark from native oaks – to the much swifter method of soaking the cowhides in sodium bichromate.

ASSAULT

Another fairly recent change is Salz's assault upon the shoe industry. In 1960 Lezin decided that the company's small but steady market among the makers of key cases, billfolds, and other novelties was neither economically or esthetically satisfying.

He began calling on Eastern shoe manufacturers who were neither sure where California was, nor convinced that stagecoaches could bring hides back East on schedule. Lezin patiently explained the facts of air freight and pointed out that Salz also operated its own trucks.

Gradually, he won over several shoe firms and today Salz supplies more than half the leather used by Florsheim. Salz also sells heavily to Thom McAn and Kinney, and Lezin assures visitors that all are good shoes. If this makes him sound like a politician – well, he is. Former mayor of Santa Cruz, Lezin is now a city councilman. On the walls of his office are framed: (1) an autographed picture of Governor Brown and (2) a specimen of a $5,000 city of Santa Cruz sewer bond.

HIDES FROM MEAT

Salz acquires its hides directly from meat packers, operating its own fleet of trucks. Hides cost from $4 to $14 fresh off the carcass. The tannery processes about 900 a day, six days a week, working around the clock. Many of Salz's 140 employees are paid by the piece, and they work like lightning.

The tannery itself is a conglomeration of the old and not quite so old. Some of the buildings date from the 1860's, and some are more recent. All are still painted barn red. Mechanical equipment – for splitting cowhide, for polishing it, for measuring the

PlanCom delays condominium zoning 2 months

Although the proposed condominium development adjacent to Rancho Del Monte Resort on Country Club Drive was reduced from 50 to 40 units, the Planning Commission rejected the revised plans last Wednesday.

Members of PlanCom felt that the number of units was excessive on the less than 4 acre parcel of land. This opinion was in agreement with that held by the Upper Valley Advisory Committee and the CVPOA. County planning director Ed DeMars concurred with the decision, saying that the placement was not in keeping with the Valley Master Plan, which located garden-type apartments nearer commercial districts.

The rezoning requested by Cummings for the Cal-Neva Corp., owner of the property, was postponed for two months by PlanCom in order to give the developers more time to redesign more in keeping with the present two unit per acre R-3 minimum.

She was given her winning ticket at Mary Clark's candy and gift store. "I enjoy coming out to the Valley to shop and to eat," Mrs. Waters added.

The ticket-drawing ceremony was held at Swan's Furniture Store last Wednesday, with Mrs. Pat Swan doing the honors of pulling out the winning ticket.

Observing were Village Committee members Lou Allaire, Bob Kvenild, Co-chairman Don McKenzie, and CV Outlook staffer Sam Boardman.

Letters to the Editor

Valley invasion

EDITOR: I write this in the hope that one of our learned Carmel Valley citizens will read it and come to my rescue!

As I sit at my typewriter, yellowjackets (bees to you) whizz by my ear; in one window and out the other; I awake in the morning to a steady humming outside, in the oaks, of literally thousands of them. They fly in the door when I open it! They sit upon my luncheon sandwich as I take a bite! Wherever there is water in the garden, hundreds of bees are thirstily sucking it up!

Help! Now they are droning around the cat's food as I put it out in the basement! They love the dry kibble; they adore the tuna! My poor cat is stung on the lip as he tries to eat! My Scottie yelps from bee stings on her nose as she playfully tries to catch them. She likes their noise! Will she never learn?

I step outside and a bee flies in my sandal! Ouch, right on the arch of my foot! Three days of swelling and pain from that one; my fourth sting! My son has had three!

Where are the monsters coming from this year? Why are they so infernally bold and hungry? They seem to be infesting many areas of our Valley from what I hear. What can be done to rid us of this plague? Sure, a few bees are great to help with the polination of flowers, etc., etc., but do they have to put so many men on the job?

Wouldn't you know? I wait for eight years to enjoy the nicest, warmest summer we've had, look forward to eating barbecued hamburgers in the warm evening, sitting outdoors and soaking up some sun... and what happens?

Do I have to share my food as well as my blood with these .....bees? Please, some nature lover, botanist, scientist, somebody, help, help help. OUCH!

Valley Lions learn importance of Libya's role in modern history

Libya was the topic of Lt. Col. (Ret.) Richard L. Wallis as he spoke to the Carmel Valley Lions Club last week in a dinner meeting at the Village Cafe.

2,500 years of history encompass this huge North African country but its role in modern world history never really became significant until the discovery of oil in 1957. From 1959 to 1964 Libya jumped to seventh in world production of oil and Libya is also the home of Wheelus Air Force Base—the largest United States Air Force Base outside of the continental United States.

Lt. Col. Wallis showed slides of ruins at Leptis and of the theatre at Magna Sabratha as he traced the significant dates in the history of this Moslem country, back to 1,000 B.C. when the Phoenecians used it as a colony. From 1911 to 1943 the Italians controlled the country and the Libyan Desert hosted Rommel, "The Desert Fox," during World War II.

In area, the country is larger than Alaska but the population is crowded into 7% of this land area. Since 1951 the nation has been ruled by a king and is a constitutional monarch with membership in the United Nations. Tripoli, a city of 130,000, is the major city and along with Benghazi is one of the two capitals. Total population of the country is estimated at 1,195,000.

After retirement in 1962, Lt. Col. Wallis worked as a civilian for the U.S. Goverment in Libya. He and his wife moved to Carmel Valley Aug. 6. Lion Clyde Hitchcock, Col. Wallis' neighbor on Merrill Way, brought the speaker as his guest to last week's meeting.

Kudos for Valley's United Cancer Crusade volunteers

August saw the completion of the United Cancer Crusade for Upper Carmel Valley. The fund drive, which was completed by the rest of the Peninsula Apr. 1, was not even started here at that time since no chairman could be found to organize the Upper Valley.

Mrs. Mark Hattan, who eventually took the chairmanship, recruited enough volunteer workers to cover the widespread residential area. Although collections were a little below last year's donations, the funds will play an important part in research, education, and supplies for the American Cancer Society.

Folk singing, auction will highlight fund-raising party

by Joan Hopkins

Lisa and Joe will highlight the entertainment Sunday, Sept. 18, when the Carmel Women's Democratic Club holds its fund-raising, food-praising party. Starting at 3 p.m., it will be in the garden of the Harwell Dyers who live at 90 Boronda Road in Carmel Valley.

Lisa, in private life mother of Kim, Shawn and Rory Buchenroth, has been a popular folk singer for several years. She will sing several songs from the Middle East and Mexico. Joe Broadman, who recently returned from a sabbatical in Europe, will add to the musical theme of "Songs Around the World," and as a finale the two singers will present a "Democratic Duet." Joe, who teaches art at the Middle School, has become synonymous with folk singing on the Monterey Peninsula.

An added attraction will be Al Daoud's group of folk dancers who will perform several Greek dances in native costume. With ample space on the Dyer's beautiful lawn, they will demonstrate some of the dances they have been practicing on Wednesday evenings at the Monterey Neighborhood Center. Topping off the entertainment there will be a "Surprise Auction" consisting of curious gifts from well-wishers (you may bring yours to the door!).

Sen. Fred Farr, Gerald V. Barron and Irby Bourriague, our three local Democratic candidates, will be on hand to greet the guests as they arrive. In case you've missed the colorful posters by Pat Carey, the theme of the afternoon is "Around the World with Famous Foods"

MRS. RUDOLPH ALT, chairman of the Democratic Women's Club fund raising party, discusses plans with Miss Ruth Dodds, president of the club.

Reservations (better hurry up as they close Sept. 14) may be made by phoning Irene Baldwin, Realtor, in Carmel Valley at 659-2216 or Sen. Farr's Headquarters in Carmel at 624-8251. A hearty invitation is extended to all and there's no need to think up a fancy costume as dress is informal and gay (to match the red and white checked decorations).

Mrs. Rudolf Alt of Country Club Drive is directing a group of party planners which include Miss Ruth Dodds of Encina Drive, President of the Carmel Women's Deomcratic Club, Mrs. John Robotti, Chairman of the Monterey County Women's Division, Mrs. Leonard Cohen, Mrs. Adolf Friedenthal, Mrs. Paul Haberfeld, Mrs. William D. Pratt and Mrs. B.R. Stratton.

Local musicians invited to try for Symphony

Musicians from the Carmel Valley area interested in playing with the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra will be auditioned on Sept. 12 at 7 p.m. in the Carmel Sunset Auditorium.

John Gosling, conductor and music director, announced the general auditions for all instruments. He noted that "Applicants should be prepared to play an excerpt from the orchestral repertoire, and be available for weekly rehearsals held on Monday evenings throughout the coming year."

This will mark the beginning of the 21st season for the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra, which annually presents a series of five concerts in Carmel and Salinas. The first program is scheduled for Oct. 17 and Oct. 18.

The 85-member orchestra is composed of both professional and talented amateur musicians. Last year's players represented a wide cross section of Monterey County residents including teachers, servicemen, plumbers and farmers.

Additional information can be obtained from the Monterey County Symphony Association office, P.O. Box 3851, Carmel, or by calling 624-4125.

Co-op Nursery meeting set for Thursday

Carmel Valley Coop Nursery School will hold a coffee tomorrow (Thursday) from 10 to 12 in the school rooms at CV Community Chapel. Anyone interested in the Coop Nursery and all prospective members are invited to attend.

Babysitting will be provided for children not attending school. The Coop Nursery, under the Carmel Adult School program, takes pre-school youngsters from age 2 1/2 to kindergarten.

Cost is twelve dollars a month for the first child and five dollars for the second, according to director Florence Johnson. Of this, five dollars goes to the school district and the rest is used by the local school.

New arrivals

Three baby girls of Carmel-Carmel Valley parents put in their appearance at Community Hospital recently.

Diane Monique, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. Hanssens, Rt. 2, Box 954, Carmel, was born Aug. 18.

Martha Alicia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victoriano Lopex of Rt. 2, Box 750, Carmel, was born Aug. 21.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Larson of General Delivery, Carmel, became parents of Maria Georgia Aug. 24.

IBM 1440 takes over class scheduling at Carmel High

A computer has taken the work out of scheduling courses for students at Carmel High School.

The job which used to take five people working half a day five weeks has now been chopped to a mere two hours by computer. "They were well-paid, administrative type of people, too," commented Principal Warren W. Edwards of Carmel High, "and they are released for more productive work now."

The computer is an IBM 1440 at Monterey Peninsula College. Edwards had high praise for the assistance provided by Phil Nash, who heads the computer department at MPC.

"Nash has a high degree of interest and skill," Edwards said. "It's a fine effort on the part of MPC, helping prove it is truly a community college." He said no high school alone could support the computer and that it is practical by dividing up its costs among such jobs as Carmel High's student scheduling. The cost is minimal to each school, he added.

With 900 students and 300 different courses, many combinations are possible, the principal explained. Freshmen are not so difficult to schedule because most of their courses are required, but electives multiply as students progress, which makes it difficult to dove-tail available courses with those desired by students at the hours they have open during eight periods.

The first computer run, Edwards said, produced 80% perfect scheduling. The third run gave 99% perfect fitting the entire puzzle of student desires with available classes together.

"The big iron secretary doesn't take the personal element out of programing when necessary," Edwards pointed out. "We still hand do special student requests to keep everybody happy."

"It's a very skillful tool to help administration and to balance classes quickly." And it's true that the computer doesn't need coffee breaks and doesn't get tired."

Under the Oaks and Among the Cacti

By Mildred Hattan

A Monterey pine tree to be planted in the garden of their new home in Saratoga will serve as a sentimental reminder to Vee and George Baker of the many friends made during the years spent in Carmel Valley. The tree was one of the gifts presented to the Bakers at a farewell party given for them by the Carmel Valley Lions and their ladies at the Saddle Mountain Ranch. Guests at the "no-host" potluck affair barbecued steaks and enjoyed dancing, cocktails, and superb weather. Joining together to say goodbyes were: Mr. and Mrs. Jack Barnhart, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bordonaro, Mr and Mrs. Henry Blatnik, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Diaz, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Corona, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Dufur, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Frumkin, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gansel, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hitchcock, Mr. and Mrs. Al Vojtisek and daughter, Mary Jo, Mr. and Mrs. Tom McKenna, Mr. and Mrs. William Stowers, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Maiser, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Tedrow, Mr. and Mrs. Don Draper, Mr. and Mrs. Tony August, Mr. and Mrs. Richard McKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Todd, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wall, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Ward, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Baker.

John Goodloe of Ford Rd., who has been a teaching principal at Oak Grove School, has been given the principalship of Marina Del Mar School. The appointment was made by the board of the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District.

Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. Robert Kirksey and family moved last week from their home at 47 Sage Rd. to their new assignment at Lemoore. Bob recently completed his course at the Naval Postgraduate School and Vi formerly taught at Tularcitos. With children, Jennifer, Robert, Greg and Andy, (not to mention their personable English bull dog, "Sugar!") the family, who participated in so many community activities, will surely be missed. Prior to their departure, they entertained Bob's brother and family. It was the second visit to the Valley for Jack, Pat, and children who make their home in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Loris Auld have sold their home on Merrill Way and moved to Carmel where they will make their home on Monte Verde. Col. (ret.) and Mrs. Richard L. Wallis who recently completed a tour of duty in Libya, North Africa, have purchased the Auld property.

Mr. and Mrs. Don W. Parks who have made their home for several years on Horizon Way have been transferred to Sacramento where Mr. Parks is with the Agriculture Dept. for the State of California.

Capt. Raymond Acker, a member of the U.S. Army Reserve Chaplain Corps was a recent guest at the home of his cousin and husband, Cmdr. (ret.) and Mrs. William Stowers. Capt. Acker, originally from Harford, Conn., has just completed training at Fort Polk, La., and was enroute to Okinawa where he has been assigned as chaplain of the Army hospital.

Sgt. 1st Class and Mrs. Ivan A. Makinster have sold their home at 29 Lilac Road to Mr. and Mrs. George Jennings. The Jennings with children, Bobby, Carol and Ann, formerly lived on Paso Hondo. "Mac," who was transferred to Fort Hood, Tex., is awaiting overseas orders. His wife and children will make their home in Los Angeles until his return. Barbara, who was active with the White Oaks Theatre group, preceded the family move to Los Angeles where she was slated for an audition with CBS. Their daughter, Esther Beth, had been accepted by the Air Force and was awaiting orders. Their son, Christopher, will attend school in the south.

New neighbors on Rancho Tierra Grande are Mr. and Mrs. William Jones who formerly made their home on Toyon Way.

An old Spanish game called "El Cato Bingo" will be sponsored by the Carmel Valley Lionettes at the Fiesta de los Amigos. Plans for the fund raising booth, sponsored by wives of the Valley Lions Club, are still in the making but when contacted, Mrs. Tony August, chairman, urged that Fiesta-goers "Bring pesos!"

Former residents of Covina have purchased an acre and built their home in the former Stone orchard at 200 W. Carmel Valley Rd. Mr. and Mrs. C. Howard Trompeter are enjoying their new Valley location with its close proximity to their daughter and family, the Jerry Mapsons on Brookdale Dr.

Former school friends from Chaska, Minn., have been recent houseguests at the Sage Rd. home of Col. (ret.) and Mrs. Carl Maiser. Mr. and Mrs. Al Vojtisek accompanied their daughter to the coast where she will teach in a junior high school in the Los Angeles school system.

Horse drawn transportation wanted for Fiesta

Wanted, dead or alive! Old hay wagons, surreys, buckboards, sulkies, coaches, buggies and other horse-drawn vehicles are being searched out and renovated or restored by a group of Carmel Valley men for the Carmel Valley "Fiesta de los Amigos" to be held on Saturday, Sept. 24.

The old carriages will be used in the Fiesta parade to begin at noon in the village, and will carry dignitaries, old-timers and the costumed children of the Kiddies' Parade up the long hill to Holman's Guest Ranch where the Fiesta will begin at the arrival of the parade.

Anyone with information is asked to contact R.H. Hebert, 659-4748.

Outlook On Carmel

CARMEL VALLEY OUTLOOK September 7, 1966

Autograph party for local author, Dr. G

AUTHOR "DR. G" GOLDSCHMIDT, who is a part-time resident of Carmel and cartoonist Sandy Heckinger of San Francisco signed a copy of "It's Square to Be Round," for Joan Weeks at Saturday's autograph party at the Book Worm. Dauton Hatch and Greg Solis, owners of the shop, were pleased to report that more copies of the clever book on dieting were sold at their party than at the big shindig given in San Francisco last week.

Pushcart from movies stars at Antique Castle

A new and intriguing shop, Castle in Carmel, specializing in home-made candy, opened last week in Carmel. It is on Dolores St., between Ocean and 7th, occupying the former location of Dolores Bakery.

Castle in Carmel personifies the unique talents of two families, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Radke and their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Layton.

The shop is their second in the area. They also own and operate the Antique Castle at 649 Lighthouse, Pacific Grove. This is in a 75-year-old landmark of Victorian architecture, which they restored with great pains and talent during six months of effort.

The spacious building for their new Carmel shop was completely remodeled by its owners, Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Rohr.

Castle in Carmel has a unique Gay 90's atmosphere, featuring restored antiques and fixtures. An interesting coincidence is the fact that an Italian bread pushcart on display is the same one which can be seen in the movie presently showing at the Village Theatre, "What Did You Do in the War, Daddy?" Mrs. Layton bought the pushcart from a friend in North Hollywood.

An early reaction of customers are offers to buy the attractive props, along with the regular candy offerings. Besides home-made candies, old-fashioned gourmet spiced cheese and jellies are available, plus greeting cards and stationery in a special "paper room."

The families owned an antique shop in the San Fernando Valley before moving to this area. Their interest in making their own candies began 15 years ago in a small town, Russell, Kan., where they opened a candy store.

MRS. ROBERT STANTON adds her required signature to the certificate changing the name of AFA to the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art Assoc. Leonard Heller and Mrs. John Nail witness the signing.

The Rhyming Philosopher

What makes life worth living is joyfully giving
Our all to a cause be it common or new.
Its also apparent to be a good parent
Is noble and worth a nice halo or two.

We get satisfaction from much of this action
In making a home that the children have shared.
We've worked hard in earnest and given our durnedest;
Though taken for granted, we've never despaired.

We feel this elation at end of vacation,
When school starts again—we bustle about
To get the kids ready, then bravely unsteady,
We wave then a bye-bye and hustle them out.

Comes peace and the silence as if there's a high fence
That shuts out the world, and at last we're alone!
We slump at the table, and if we're still able,
We put on the coffee and get on the phone.

"Come over, dear neighbors, we're through with our labors,
We've still a few hours to relax for a bit."
If God made the children, it could be He willed then
A time for their mothers to loaf and just sit.

Carmel adult education students donate art to Ft. Ord Hospital

FORT ORD—"We need more paintings," is the cry from the Fort Ord Army Hospital. The hospital has recently decorated a number of its wards with paintings donated by the Carmel Adult Education Classes.

The paintings were collected and delivered to Fort Ord by Mrs. Ben N. Ahl, wife of retired Navy Captain Ben N. Ahl. The patients and hospital staff members hung the paintings throughout the wards. "We think the paintings will add a lot of cheer to the walls," Mrs. Ahl stated. "I also feel that this is an opportunity for the artists in the adult classes to find a use for their paintings."

At the present time, however, some of the hospital wards are still without paintings and hospital officials have sent out a plea for more. Their usefulness as a morale booster was summed up by a hospital patient, Pvt. Edward H. Wampler of B Company, 2nd Battalion, 3rd Brigade, when he said, "They make our ward so much more colorful and brighter."

White Oak preview

Good voices, music, costumes in Mozart's 'Cosi Fan Tutte'

Because of the timing it would be impossible to review the forthcoming White Oaks presentation of Mozart's "Cosi Fan Tutte," ("Women are Like That!") before the performance. Opening tomorrow night, and playing through Sunday, the comedy will also feature the 30 piece California Chamber Ensemble from Los Angeles. Therefore, this reviewer decided to attend some rehearsals and get an idea of what was going to be offered to the theatre public this coming week at White Oaks. We can put it in a few words... good voices, good music and marvelous costuming!

Sets were not yet finished, and costumes were only hanging on hangers as the singers rehearsed on stage, but one could close one's eyes and thoroughly appreciate the quality of voices.

The production of "Cosi Fan Tutte" will be the final performance of Tracy Carr, who will be leaving on Monday for graduate study in voice at San Francisco State. Tracy will be singing the role of Dorabella, a lady from Ferraia, on Thursday, Saturday and Sunday nights, with Pegg Hewett singing the part on Friday. The quality of Tracy's voice is well known to Peninsula music lovers; however, Peggy, a member of the summer company, also has an excellent singing voice and handles the part beautifully.

Seen last year as the female chorus in the opera "Rape of Lucretia," Emily Lawhead returns to sing the role of Fiordiligi, sister to Dorabella and betrothed to Auglielmo. Emily, who was a student at Louisiana State, has completed graduate study at USC and will leave this fall for continued work in Munich, Germany. She has a voice which is beautifully trained and controlled, with impeccable enunciation.

Shelia Jo White, who graduated this summer from LSU and is completing her second summer with White Oaks will lend her lovely soprano voice to the part of Despina, maid to the two ladies.

Richard Veale, also of LSU and a member of the summer company, sings the role of Ferrando, and Auglielmo, the other officer, betrothed to Fiordiligi, will be portrayed by Ed Crafts. Richard appeared as the minstrel in "Once Upon a Mattress," and sang the major male roles in the two one act operas presented during the summer.

Ed, who has been studying in Philadelphia, has a rich, mellow voice and arrives for the "Cosi Fan Tutte" part from another production of the same opera in Santa Barbara. There, however, he sang the role of Don Alfonso.

In the White Oaks production, Don Alfonso, philosopher and friend to the two men, is sung by Doug Stobie, who has been working on his doctorate at USC. His voice, like the others, is excellent.

The opera is a comedy of fidelity, infidelity and masquerade, and is sung entirely in English. The music is Mozart, the libretto by Lorenzo da Ponte. The English translation is by Ruth and Thomas Martin.

The 30 piece Chamber Ensemble will be joined by summer company members Ray Warren on violon cello and Tom Janusz on bass. Conductor and musical director for the opera is Chris Nance with Shirley Eoff as stage director. Sets have been designed by Jack Simon, but they were not yet in evidence.

Don Mulderick's lavish and colorful costumes are magnificent, for both the ladies and the men. A subtle touch is added in the fact that even while in disguise, each man's costume is color-keyed to that of the lady to whom he is really betrothed.

We would say that this performance of opera in Carmel Valley is an event well worth attending. Performances will be at 8:30 p.m. Thursday through Sunday, Sept. 8-11.

Carmel Valley News is heard every Wednesday morning at 10:32 over Radio Station KIDD. News Director Rob Mahr reports in cooperation with the Carmel Valley Outlook.

'Never Too Late' opens Thursday at Studio Theatre

Husband and wife in real life will take the corresponding parts on the stage as Sam and Edie Karas play Harry and Edith Lambert in "Never Too Late" opening Thursday at the Studio Theatre & Restaurant in Carmel. Both have been active in theatre groups on the Monterey Peninsula for a number of years. Mrs. Karas is on the board of the Community Theatre here.

In "Never Too Late" the Karases portray a couple in their middle years who suddenly face impending parenthood with the mixed emotions common to this situation. Their daughter and son-in-law, who live with them and find the coming event a nightmare, are played by Sydna Flynn and Roger Parkes. Mrs. Flynn was in the recent Studio production of "The Pajama Game" and Parkes makes his stage debut.

Sally Richmond who appears in the role of Grace Kimbrough, was last seen in the Circle production of "The Gazebo" and previously in "The Night of the Iguana."

"Never Too Late" will run weekends at the Studio until the latter part of October. The production is under the direction of Michael Keller with set and lighting by Bob Evans, Jr.

DORABELLA will be played by Tracy Carr (center) in the Thursday, Saturday and Sunday night performances of "Cosi Fan Tutte" at White Oaks Theatre. Shelia Jo White (left) is Despina, the maid, and Doug Stobie is Don Alfonso.

Behind a facade of old wooden buildings the Salz Tannery employs modern techniques and machinery to produce quality leather for a demanding market.

A CLIFF WAS A SLAUGHTER HOUSE 100 YEARS AGO

square footage of a hide – is unique, and some of it is still hand-made, such as the huge paddles in the vats where the hides are originally processed.

Another reason for Salz's switch to producing shoe leather was to be able to afford modern technology. The change has been costly, according to Lezin, and much is still to be done. But annual sales are now up to $5½ million from $1¼ million in 1959.

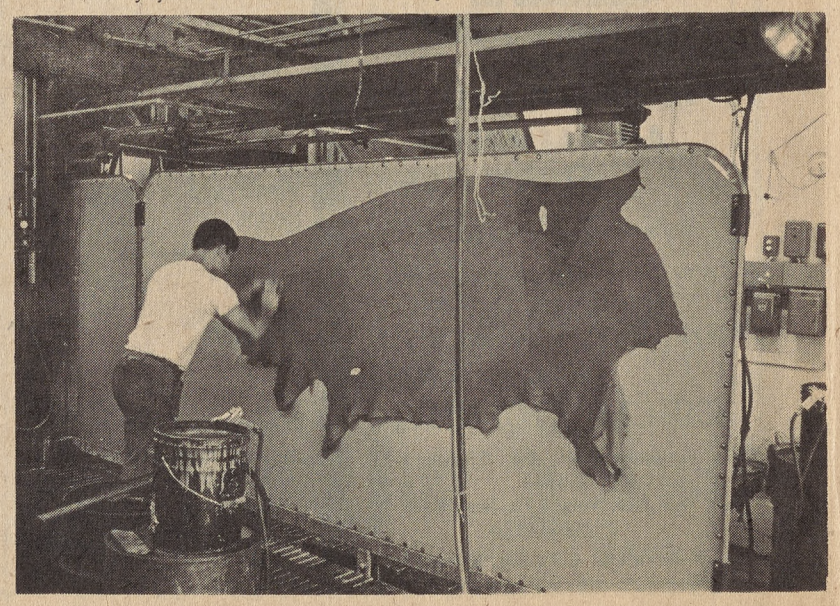
COMPETITION

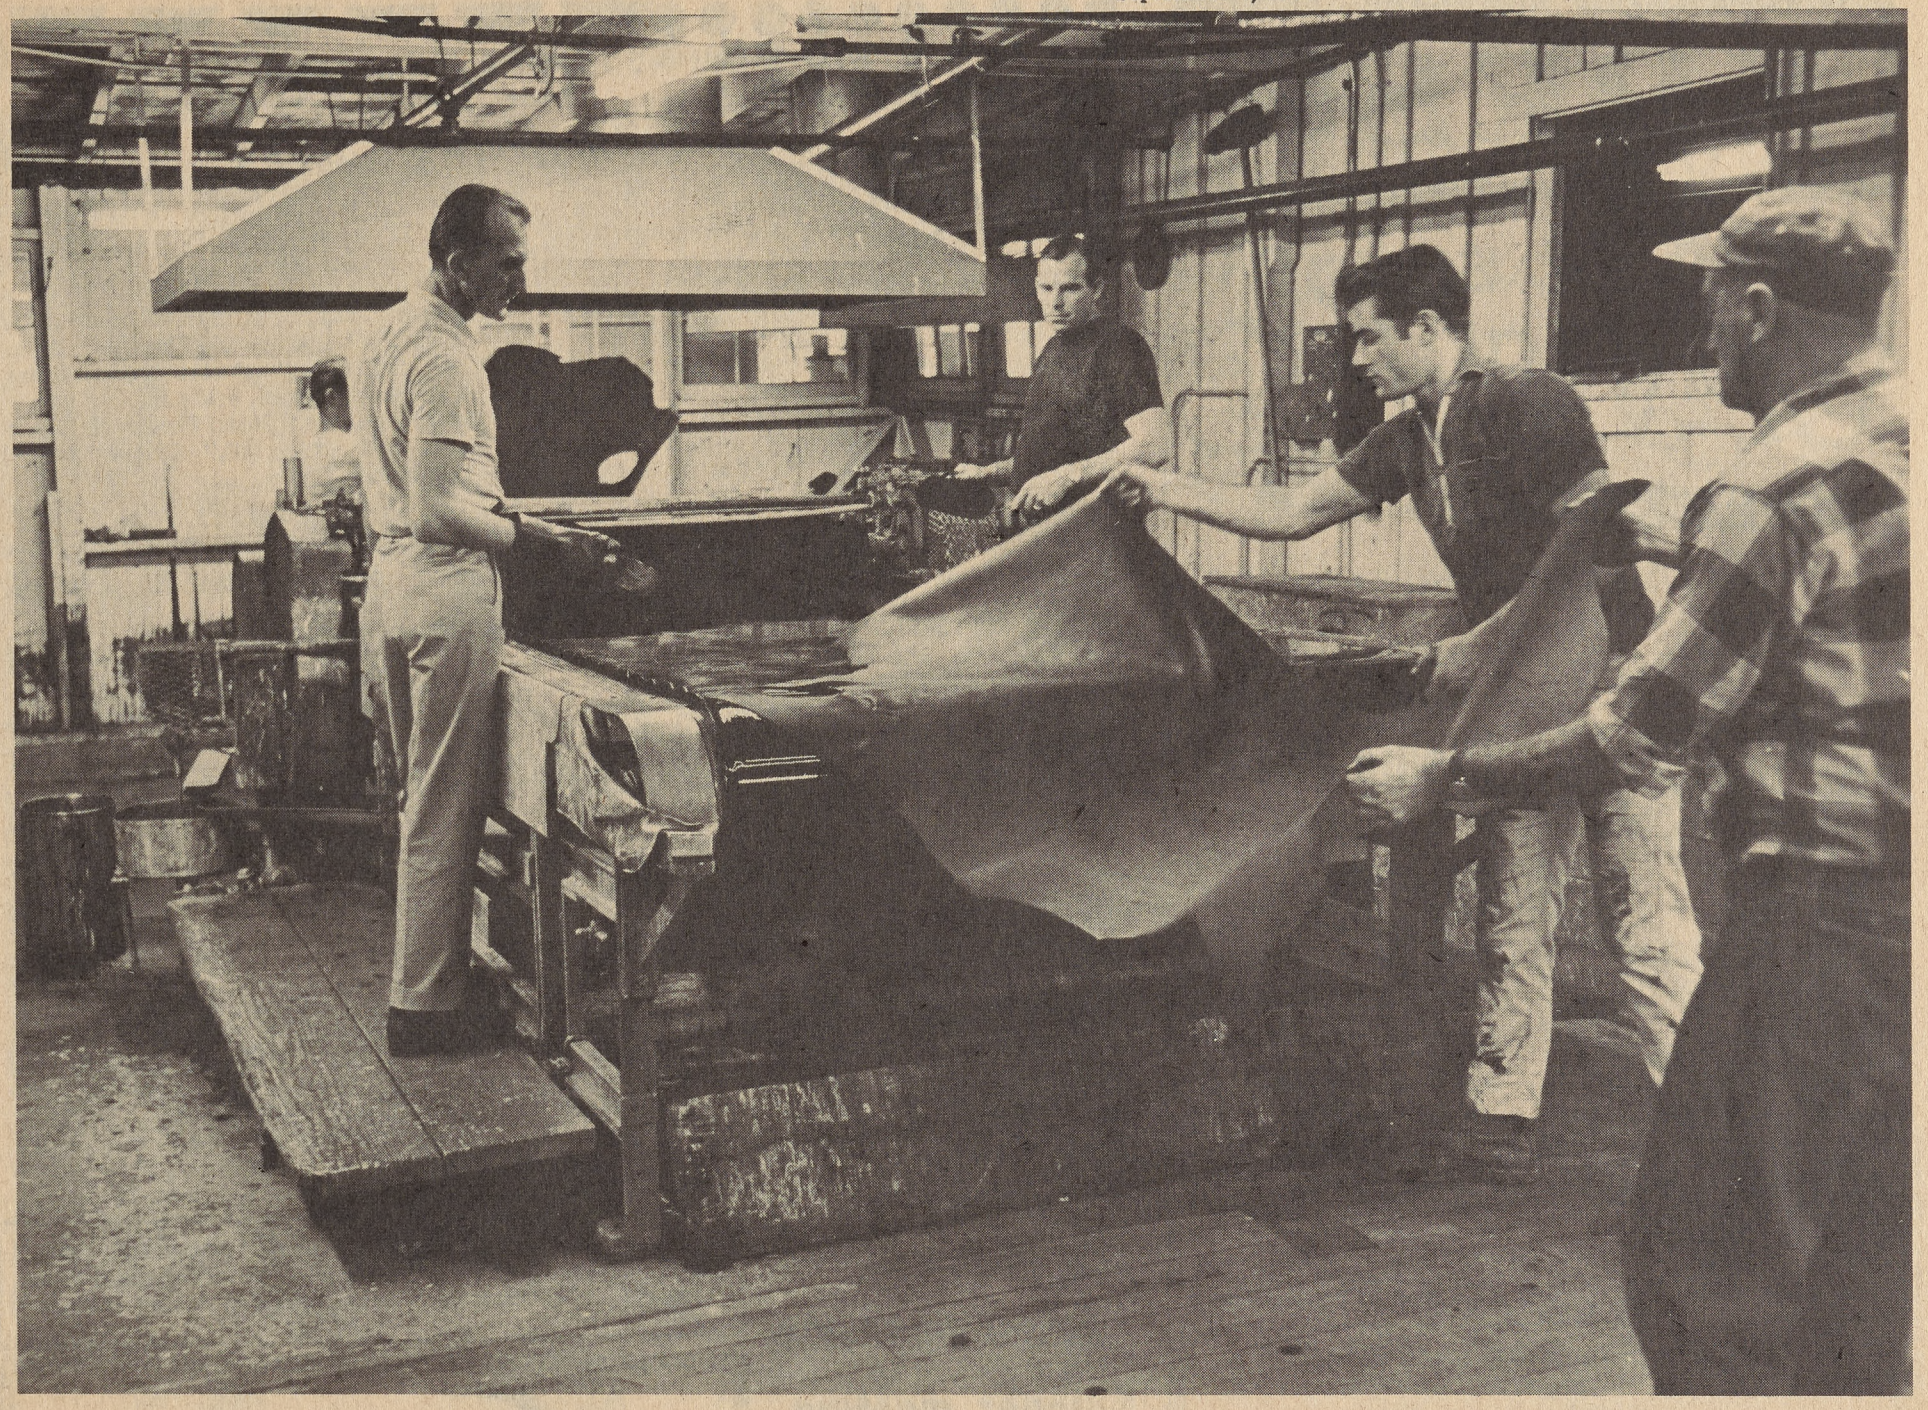
There is no local competition for Salz leather, although 100 years ago Santa Cruz had six tanneries. In those days, before refrigeration made meat-packing big business, cattlemen drove their herds over coastal cliffs and then rode leisurely down to retrieve the hides.

Two tanneries survive in San Francisco, according to Lezin, and two in Napa and one in Berkeley. The future for Salz looks good to Lezin, who remarks, "We have a good product, excellent outlook, and a fine capacity to listen in a creative, up-to-date way to customer wants." Salz workers are skilled in creating the myriad finishes and colors demanded by manufacturers. Lezin does wish, however, that cattlemen would find a less expensive place to put their brands.

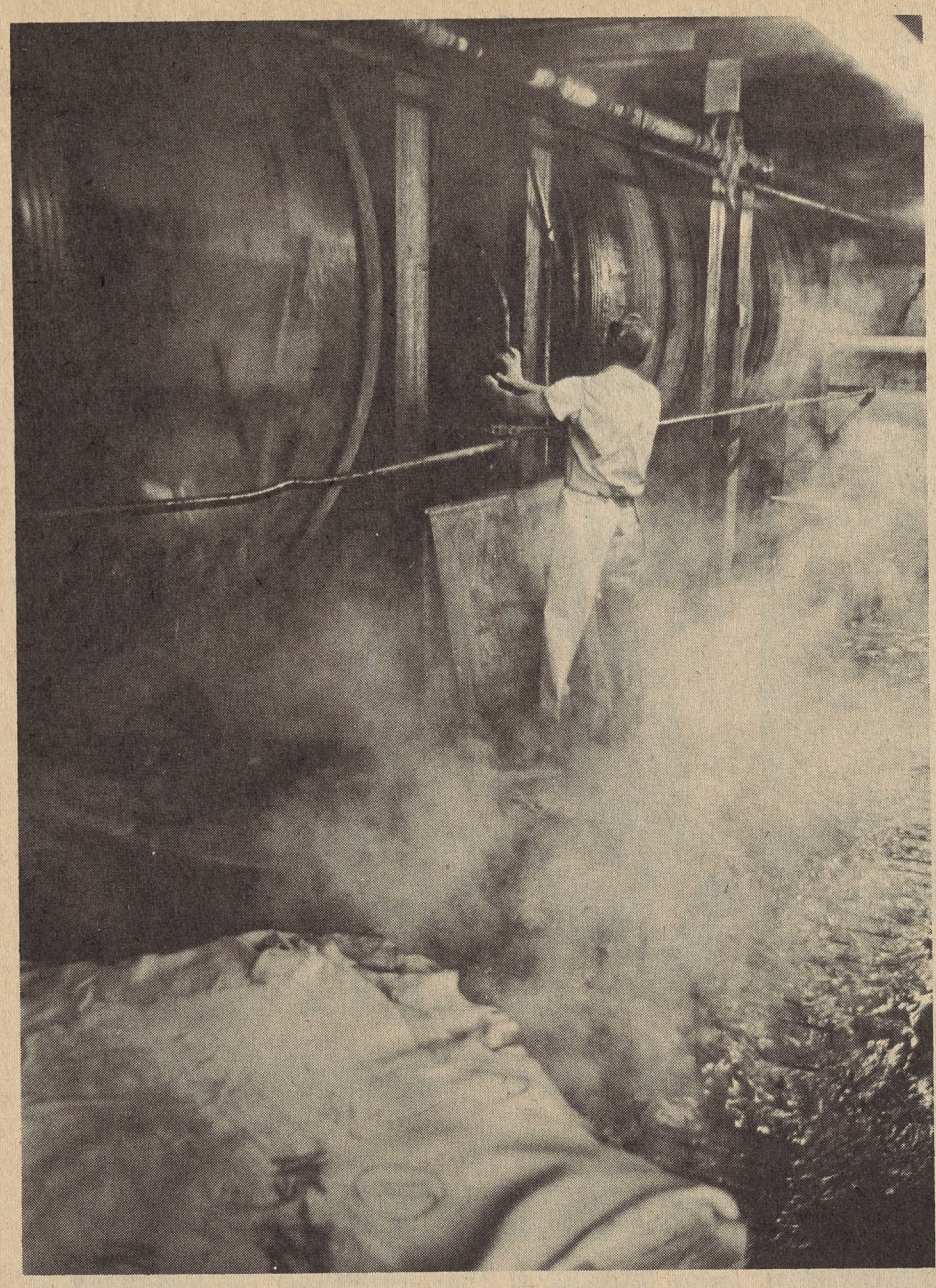
Flanked by members of his crew, Salz' President Norman Lezin discusses the tricky business of dyeing a side of leather to the exact color specifications of an Eastern shoe firm.

After dyeing the wet sides are dried by flattening them on metal forms which have been sprayed with a liquid paste. These are then sent to hot air chambers. Formerly the hides were tacked on boards and allowed to dry for 48 hours. The new process takes less than 4.

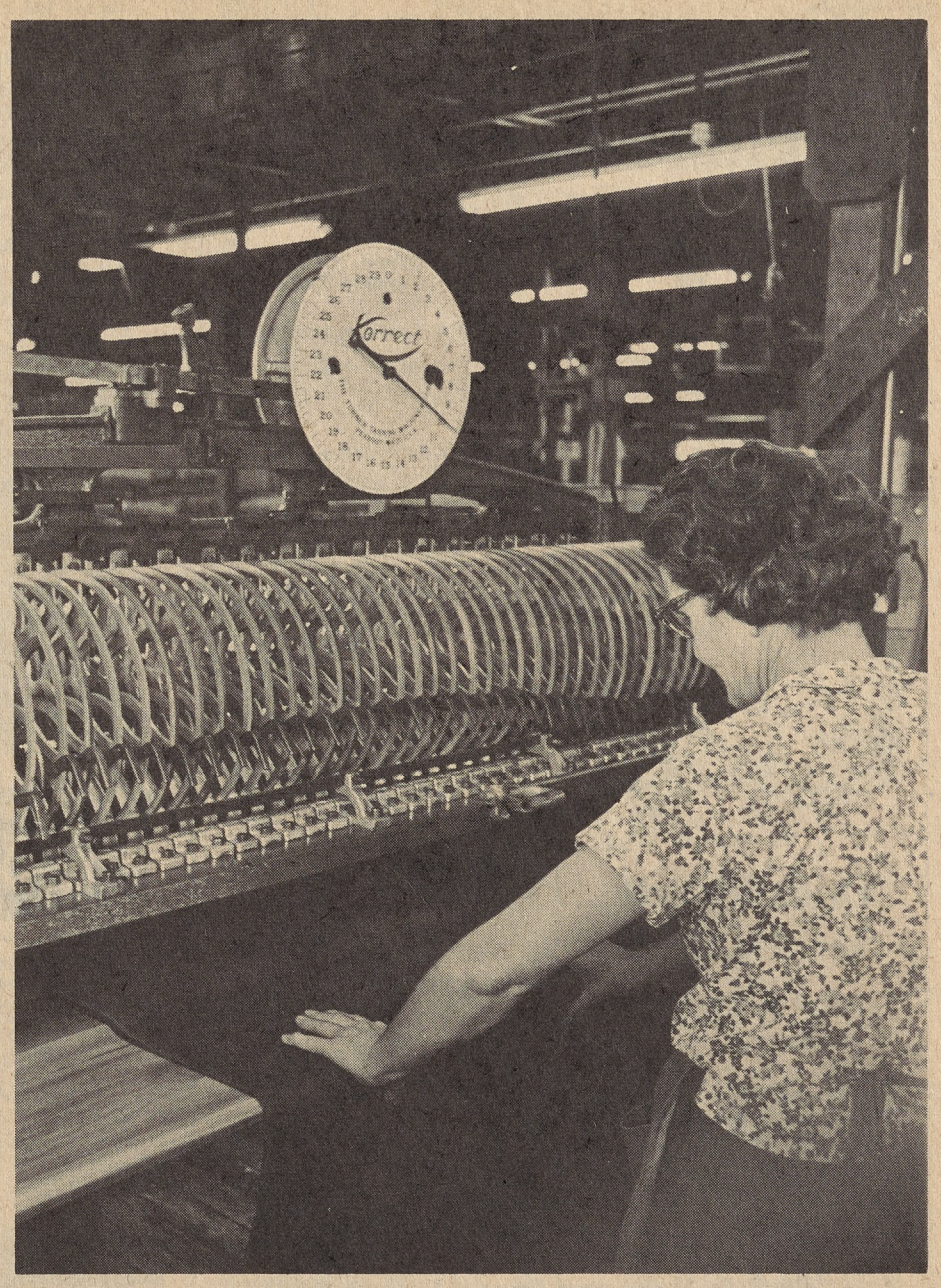




Special finishing colors are sometimes required and they are applied by a machine which resembles a flatbed press.



In massive hand-made wooden vats the sides of leather (a side is one-half of a full hide) are tumbled about in chemical solutions to get the required color.



One of the final steps before shipping: measuring the square feet in each side. The operator passes the irregular shaped surface through a special machine which announces the square feet total on an overhead dial.

Lionettes have Hawaiian theme dinner meeting

A Samoan outrigger, centering a table strewn with gaily colored leis, set the theme for the Carmel Valley Lionettes' "Hawaiian Night" dinner meeting at the Los Laureles Lodge. Invited by co-hostesses Mrs. Clyde Hitchcock and Mrs. George Jennings to come in costume, members wore a wild array of grass skirts, muu muus, flowers in the hair (and even blossoms on their toes!)

Mrs. Patricia Kinkel of Carmel won the prize for the best dressed Polynesian. Mrs. George Baker was the winner of the door prize. Mrs. Lloyd Todd received birthday congratulations from the group, who welcomed Mrs. Phil Wright as a new member.

A novel "Silent Auction" enriched both the club treasury and members' households, giving them an opportunity to bid on such items as a robe, ice bucket, and jewelry donated by each person attending.

Slides taken on a recent trip to the Islands shown by guest speaker, Mrs. Paul Anthony, added greatly to the South Sea atmosphere of the evening.

Little theatre in Robles del Rio

IN THE BEASLEY'S two-car garage, just across the road from Rosie's, five young ladies have started a bit of entertainment for the other young ones in the neighborhood. The entertainment is varied, rehearsal times are short and the refreshment stand is just across the street. The five little ladies who perform are Judy Wright and her baton; Laura Valpe, the glamor girl; Susan Beasley and "Babe," maybe an animal act; then Kathy and Debora Beasley, the Miss America types. Show time is anytime that there is an audience. The price, to fit your pocketbook. They are all looking for pigeons.

Madame Ziceva brings all her experience in theatre and films to her Valley students

Her photograph decorates the jacket of ballet-music recordings. Mme. Olga Ziceva, Carmel Valley ballet teacher, has danced from Russia's Imperial Ballet school where she studied, to New York productions, Hollywood movies and many musicals and ballets in between across America.

"The first few years of ballet learning are the most important, particularly when it's once or twice a week," Mme. Ziceva said. "It's then that students learn good or bad habits, which they develop when practicing by themselves at home."

After dancing professionally for a number of years, a knee injury during her season with the Chicago Civic Ballet helped turn her thoughts to the less strenuous life of teaching.

For more than 30 years she operated a major Bay area school in San Mateo, Ziceva Ballet School, which still bears her name. When she sold it to move with her husband, Basil Frobisher, to Carmel Valley about three years ago, she employed two regular and two assistant teachers to instruct 475 students a week.

FRIEND OF MRS. VERNON

By coincidence, she moved from Hollywood to San Mateo and then from there to Carmel Valley because of an old friend, Mrs. Valentina Vernon. While visiting Mrs. Vernon, who was running a San Mateo restaurant then, Mme. Ziceva was persuaded to settle there to open a ballet studio. It was Mrs. Vernon, well-known here as the operator of White Oaks Cafe, who again persuaded her to move nearby, to Carmel Valley.

Born and educated in Moscow, Mme. Ziceva studied under the famous teacher, Chudinoff, at the Imperial Ballet School, and became an accomplished pianist. Her father, a judge, was an intellectual and, although far removed from the Marxist movement, disagreed with enough of the politics of the Czarist government to feel it advisable to move with his family to America.

They settled in Cleveland where they had relatives, and he launched a Russian-language newspaper there, for Russian exiles.

WITH BALLET RUSSE

Shortly after, when only 15, she began dancing with the famous Les Sassons de Ballet Russe. "I knew only Russian and French then, no English, which I learned mostly by reading 'The Saturday Evening Post'," she recalled.

Dancing with Theodore Kosloff and his wife, prima ballerina Alexandra Baldina, Mme. stayed with the international group for two years.

During the war, she appeared at Winter Garden and in New York City with Rosloff in a revue produced by J.J. Shubert. She studied then with L. Albertini.

Later, she toured the Orpheum circuit with Gertrude Hoffman and was soloist with the Greenwich Follies. She also danced the principal role in John Murray Anderson's "The Girl in the Cameo."

To take some of the precariousness out of the entertainment field, she was active in the organization of Actors' Equity, which sought to improve conditions.

Recuperating from a knee operation, Mme. Ziceva went to Hollywood where she became associated with the Russian-American Art Club. It became a well-known center of actors, dancers and singers. The weekly shows presented at its theatre restaurant were a showcase of talent scouted by the movie studios.

From here Mme. Ziceva moved on, dancing in movies and concerts. Her first major triumph there was as dancing partner of Dimitri Romanoff in the first ballet produced in the Hollywood Bowl, in 1933.

Two and a half years were enough of Hollywood, and she then accepted the opportunity of opening her own studio in San Mateo.

During her years devoted to the art of dancing and teaching, Mme. Ziceva earned a place of prestige and leadership in her field. She has been the West Coast representative of the National Academy of Ballet, past president and ballet advisor of Dance Masters of California and America.

She has written articles on ballet techniques for Dance Magazine, and wrote a regular column on the dance for the San Mateo Times.

She chose music and supervised production of a record series, "Music for Ballet Dance Education Series," of Dance Records, Inc., N.J.

In Carmel Valley she has taken over the students of Angene Feves, who has moved to the Bay area, and has established a pleasant studio in Giuseppe's building.

BALLET DEVOTION of a lifetime is reflected in the enthusiasm and understanding of Mme. Olga Ziceva, shown here instructing little Susie Senger, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Senger of Valle Vista Rd. Her vast experience goes from the Imperial Ballet school in Moscow to New York, Hollywood, San Mateo in the Bay area and now Carmel Valley.

On any road, in any weather, SAAB is a more daring car to drive because SAAB has front-wheel drive. The fantastic traction of front-wheel drive lets SAAB hold on to the road for dear life. (Your dear life.)

Other cars don't give you, even as options, all the safety features that are standard in SAAB. For example, roll-bar construction, collapsible steering column, three separate braking systems.

On country roads and on super-highways, SAAB is a safe and daring car. (And SAAB also dares those so-called economy cars to match its low operating cost.) SAAB

Nancy Baxter becomes bride of John Nielson in Carmel rites

Nancy Lee Baxter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Baxter of Carmel, was married on Aug. 27, to John Brooks Nielsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Coain Epps of Winston, Calif. The late afternoon wedding took place at the Church of the Wayfarer in Carmel with the Rev. Burkert Cree of the Community Church officiating.

Nancy wore a long-sleeved floor length A-line gown of white organza over taffeta, trimmed with pearl-embroidered lace. Her camelot headpiece was also trimmed in seed pearls and held a cascade fingertip veil. The bride' shoes were elegantly covered with a lace embroidered with pearls by her maid of honor, Vicki Hutchison.

Vicki was assisted by four bridesmaids, Carol Nielsen, the groom's sister from San Jose; Penny Roosa from Atascadero; Cathy Arreguy from Santa Maria; and Roslyn Yagi of Honolulu. The latter three girls were all classmates of Nancy's at UC Berkeley.

Best man was Everett L. Epps of Los Angeles, and ushers were Dick Gaither and Harold Holman of Atwater, Bob Nelson from San Jose, and Hubert Tanaka from Menlo Park. The ring bearer was the groom's nephew, Michael Epps.

The Community Church choir, of which Nancy is a member, sang "Oh, Perfect Love." Soloist was Mr. John Farr, choi r director, who sang the Lord's Prayer.

Nancy attended MPC and graduated from University of California at Berkeley in June. John attended Modesto Jr. College and MPC. He returned from service with the Army in Viet Nam in June.

The young couple will live in San Jose where Nancy will be employed by the Dept. of Welfare. John will finish his education at San Jose State where he is enrolled as a math major, and plans to go on into teaching.

CUSD asks for noon recess volunteers

Parents are needed to help with the noon recreation at both Tularcitos and Woods Schools, according to Chuck Dawson, director of the CUSD recreation department.

One person is needed for each school to help supervise the children from 12 to 1 p.m. There is a small amount of compensation involved and it would be an ideal way for a mother or father who lives close to one of the schools to close to one of the schools to help out.

Anyone interested in applying for the position should call the CUSD recreation office at 624-3342.

CHS principal announces driving rules

Strict enforcement of parking and student driving rules at Carmel High School is necessary this school year, Principal Warren W. Edwards pointed out this week.

"We simply do not have the physical space to park all the cars that students would like to bring," he explained. "We simply cannot handle the occasional driver—the student who can have mother's car on Wednesdays."

As a result, parking will be on an assigned basis at the high school, only for students who must drive daily. Spaces will be assigned on a priority basis, following student-parent requests explaining reasons for need.

Students issued permits, Edwards said, must abide by all parking, driving and operating rules; these include not leaving campus in an automobile or other vehicle until final departure for the day.

Administrator OK's use permit for St. Philip's Lutheran Church

St. Philip's Lutheran Church plans to build a 235-seat building on a 5.8 acre site across Carmel Valley Rd. from All Saints' Episcopal Day School, according to a use permit authorized last week by County Zoning Administrator Robert Slimmon.

A use permit is all that is required for a church, unless appealed, Slimmon pointed out.

Conditions for the permit include design control by the county planning commmission, landscaping and an identification sign.

Also included will be a parsonage for the pastor, Rev. J. Bernhard Bretheim.

The church earlier had been denied a permit for a smaller site at Carmel Valley Rd. and Via Petra. The new site is four miles east of Highway 1.

The congregation of 82 baptized members is now meeting in Carmel Middle School.

Dave Papineau joins Marines

MPC freshmen orientation set Monday Sept. 12

Monterey Peninsula College freshmen, excused this year from taking a freshman orientation course, will instead be treated to a full program of orientation activities on Sept. 12, opening day of MPC's fall semester.

The day has been planned, according to John R. Blakemore, dean of student personnel, so that "students may be helped to understand the academic life and college routine."

The program will begin at 9 a.m. with a student convocation in the football stadium, where welcoming addresses will be delivered by Frank Wang, ASMPC president; Dr. George J. Faul, MPC president; John Blakemore, dean of student personnel; and Dr. James Rhodes, dean of instruction. The college's yell and song leaders will be on hand to teach the freshmen the alma mater hymn, and football coach Luke Phillips and student body cabinet members will be introduced.

Some 25 sophomore guides will then conduct the freshmen, in small groups, to meetings with faculty members from the college's several departments. During an hour and a half, instructors will explain the content of courses the students will be taking, discuss educational opportunities and future occupational opportunities in their major fields, and "personalize" the college and educational environment.

At noon, the ASMPC will provide a free sack lunch for the freshmen and faculty members in the student union patio.

Counselors will meet with the freshmen in small groups at 1:30, and at 3 p.m. all students are invited to attend a free dance in the Armory. The New Impacts, a student group composed of David Schetter, Robb Ramos, Phil Kirkham, Tony Bendell, Bill Kucher and Carolyn Lucas, will provide music.

11th T & S Horse show tops them all

Over 1000 people enjoyed the beautiful sunny weather which prevailed at the 11th Annual Trail and Saddle Club Horse Show on Sunday. The largest gathering yet, the roster boasted over 200 entries in the many events held on both Saturday and Sunday. In addition to the many persons within the grounds, the horses (some people brought two or three) managed to hold their own, too.

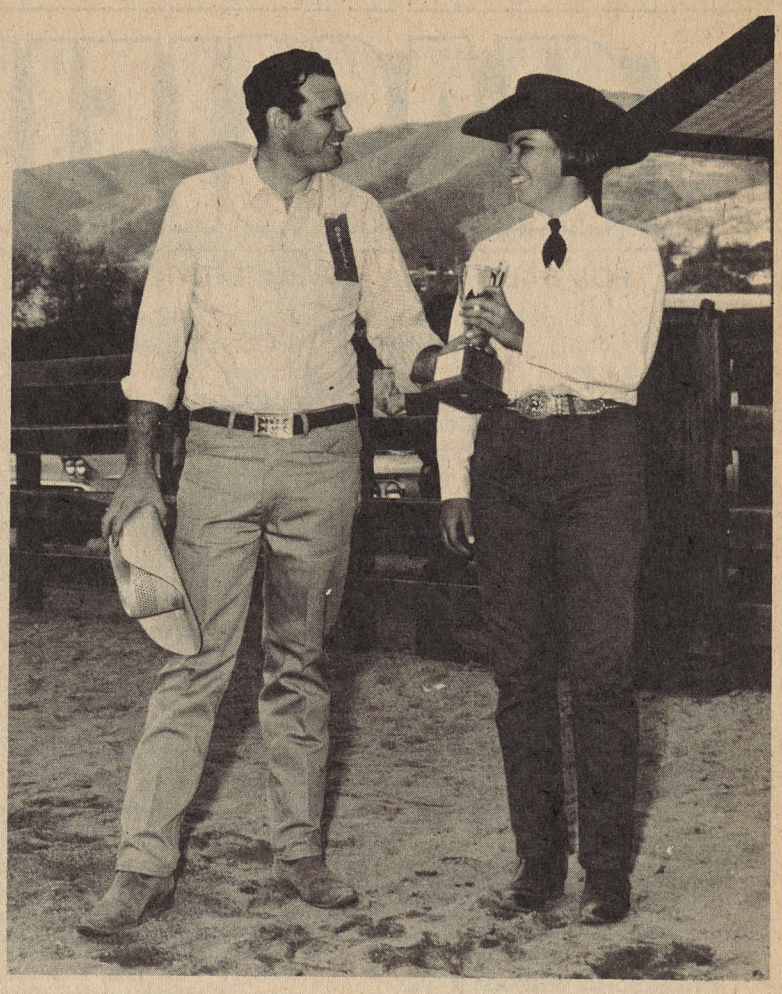
For the first time jumping events were included in the program and proved to be so popular that they will be continued next year. The English division will also be expanded next year in response to tremendous interest.

Judges for Sunday's events were Richard C. Smith, from Chatsworth, and Allan Renz from Hollister. Final tallying of the points came at 5:30 with high point awards being given at about 6 p.m. to complete the day's activities.

Cindy Cook of Los Altos Hills, who took high point winner last year in the 12 and under category, again won top honors in that class. Sharman Smith of Carmel was a first-time high point winner in the 13-17 age group, and Linda Maderak of Carmel Valley, who won that division last year, moved up to take the 18 and over high point award.

Reserve high point winners were Bill Martin of San Martin, who won the same award last year in the 12 and under class, Taj Drobeck of Carmel Valley, a first-time winner in the 13-17 year class, and another last year's winner, Ursula Ballantyne of Carmel Valley, in the 18 and over class.

Complete results of the two day show will be published next week in The Outlook along with numerous photos taken during the events.



LINDA MADERAK, high point winner, accepts her trophy from show official Sam Boardman. Last year Linda won the high point trophy in the 13-17 year category and followed up her win by taking the 18 year and over class last Sunday.
